Celebrating Home a part of Extreme Makeover: Home Edition

Celebrating Home of Marshall, Texas, participates in “Bringing Families Together” in an “Extreme” build for a deserving Loris, South Carolina family.

MARSHALL, Texas (Grassroots Newswire) – Celebrating Home – Celebrating Home, whose mission lies in “Bringing Families Together” through creating a beautiful and nurturing home environment, participated as an official corporate sponsor of the Extreme Makeover: Home Edition build for Amanda and Derrick Suggs of Loris, South Carolina, and their five children. Celebrating Home donated over $2,000 in signature Celebrating Home Veranda stoneware pieces and wall décor for the kitchen and family room area of the Suggs’ new home in Loris.

Amanda and Derrick Suggs, a young couple who had just started their own family when they adopted Amanda’s younger siblings to prevent them from being separated in foster care, were chosen as the ideal candidates for an Extreme Makeover: Home Edition build. When Derrick and Amanda got married, they moved into the home Derrick inherited from his grandfather. Built by his grandfather in 1953, the home came with a long list of repairs required to make it livable: a leaking roof, outdated and exposed electrical wiring, rotting foundation and broken and cracked asbestos siding on the outside of the house.

Derrick, 28, and Amanda, 26, who give every bit of themselves to their children (James, 19; Jacob, 17; Jordan, 10; Walker, 5; and Mason, 9 months), their community and their careers, lacked the time and money to fix their home. In mid-January of this year, the Extreme Makeover: Home Edition team, sponsors and hundreds of local volunteers joined together to build a brand new home for this family who came together to turn their lives around in the face of adversity.

Extreme Makeover: Home Edition, hosted by Ty Pennington, is a reality television series providing home renovations for deserving families. Each episode features a family who has faced some sort of recent or ongoing hardship. The show’s producers coordinate with a local construction contractor who then coordinates with various companies in the building trades for a makeover of the family’s home. If the house is beyond repair, they replace it entirely just as they did for the Suggs family. The materials and labor are donated. Sterling Homes, one of South Carolina’s and the Grand Strand’s most successful locally owned construction companies, was the designated builder for the Suggs home. Sterling Homes has built a stellar reputation for hands-on, environmentally sensitive development and as a client-driven, award-winning custom homebuilder. This is the third time Sterling has answered the call of Extreme Makeover: Home Edition.

Extreme Makeover: Home Edition* airs Sundays at 8/7 p.m. central on ABC.
